

luck. The hostess served a dainty luncheon at the close of the meeting.

Misses Nettie Krausen, Cora Ward, Lizzie Evans, Essie Reese, and Mrs. Hannah Cardwell spent the latter part of the week at Salt Lake visiting the public schools.

The first ward social hall presented a brilliant appearance Saturday evening when the ladies of the ward gave a reception and ball. The decorations were very pretty and unique, pennants, cut flowers and Japanese lanterns were used to excellent effect. Many beautiful gowns were worn by the young ladies. Following are the members of the club: Misses eGorgia Callaway, Alta Taylor, Iona Knight, Kathryn Alexander, Winnie Wilkins, Kate Taylor, Anna Newell, Eva Jones, Glad Nood, Winnie Naylor, Mina Taylor, Glazier and Thel Noon.

The sixth ward choir entertained members of the ward at a very enjoyable musical Thursday evening in the meetinghouse. Some of the best talent in the city furnished numbers.

Miss Flossie Davis, Mrs. Ruth Matley and Messrs Stanley Gammett and Frank Demming spent Sunday in Spanish Fork, guests at the home of Miss Matley.

Miss Maud Davis of this city and G. F. Somer were married Tuesday at the home of the bride's sister Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Gagey, Rev. S. H. Goodwin officiated. The bride was attired in an elegant gown of Irish lace over white satin and carried a shower bouquet. The groom wore the usual suit of black. Miss Maud Davis acted as bride maid, and George Maycock acted as best man. The decorations were elaborate, white and yellow chrysanthemums entwined with smilax and ferns were used to excellent effect, the happy young couple received the congratulations and best wishes of the guests under a beautiful shower of white chrysanthemums. An elaborate wedding supper was served, Mr. and Mrs. Somers will reside in Salt Lake City.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Affleck and son Benjamin spent the first part of the week with friends in Salt Lake.

The Messers Alfred and Dolph Peterson entertained a number of their friends at dinner party Sunday complimentary to their guest Ralph Walker of Portland.

The Misses Florence and Mable Peterson entertained Monday evening a number of their young friends. A most enjoyable evening was passed in games and music. Lunch was served.

LOGAN.

Mrs. A. L. Cole entertained with a bridge tea last Saturday at a very room decorations were autumn leaves and ferns. The table decorations were yellow chrysanthemums. Five tables were played. Mrs. J. C. Walters, Mrs. Horace Nebeker, Mrs. Sidney O. Stevens, Mrs. Roy Rudolph were the prize winners.

Mrs. D. C. Budge and Mrs. Rhoda Cook will entertain with a card party Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Budge on First North, five hundred will be the game played.

Mr. F. B. Arnold will entertain a few friends at the St. John's Tuesday evening. The evening will be devoted to music.

On Monday evening Mrs. Hal Farr was surprised by a number of her friends gathering at her home in this evening, bringing with them many good things to eat. The event being to celebrate Mrs. Farr's birthday. The time was passed in music conversation and refreshments.

On Monday evening Miss Ada Peterson was surprised by a number of her friends gathering at her home. The unique feature of the evening was the girls coming in old fashioned costumes. The rooms were decorated with yellow chrysanthemums.

On Tuesday evening the freshmen class of the agricultural college gave a party in the woman's building. Three rooms were used for the evening and were decorated in the class colors, red and white, and pennants. Games, music and refreshments occupied the time.

The dancing matinee at the B. Y. C. Tuesday afternoon, was well attended and a social success.

The A. C. Woman's club met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. W. Robinson. Mrs. Champ gave an interesting discussion of Chaucer's after which refreshments were served. Mrs. F. W. Thatcher, Miss Hattie Smith, Miss Elizabeth Smith, assisted the hostess.

The Clio circle met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. L. W. Norrell. Mrs. Roy Rudolph gave "The Outcasts of Poker Flat" by Bret Harte, after which refreshments were served.

The club will meet next week with Mrs. Luther Howell.

Miss Barbara Howell and Miss May Howell spent over last week-end in Salt Lake.

The Zina Card company of the Daughters of the Pioneers met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. J. C. Smith on Second East. Mrs. J. C. Jensen gave a very interesting paper on the entertainment of the pioneers. After which refreshments were served.

Mr. Frank Rolap of Orem spent the early part of the week here.

Mr. J. Wild spent Tuesday in Salt Lake.

Mr. Roy Bullen was in town during the week.

Mrs. Kate Preston returned last Saturday from a short stay in Salt Lake.

Mr. Frank Nebeker spent Sunday and Monday here the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Nebeker.

Mrs. Needham returned Monday from a week's stay in Preston, Idaho.

LEHI.

Wednesday afternoon the Athenian Literary society met at the home of Mrs. J. M. Kirkham. Papers on Norwegian government and customs were read, also a magazine article.

Tuesday evening Mrs. Fred Merrill pleasantly entertained the Haypp-Golucky club. There were five tables of 200. Refreshments were served.

The D. A. R. society will meet at the home of Mrs. R. Anderson Monday next.

Miss Edna Dorton entertained the Arco Glee club Monday night.

Senator Reed Smoot and Ho. T. R. Cutler of Salt Lake City were visiting Lehi friends the first of the week.

Mrs. E. B. Bartlett of Raymond, Canada, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Kirkham.

Mrs. J. E. Ross is visiting Idaho Falls friends.

Mrs. Lauro Olsen of Bingham is spending the week with Lehi friends.

Mrs. J. E. Cutler has returned to her home at Salt Lake City after a high social position and a quantity of eligible and accessible men.

Both of these advantages, however are more apparent than real, as the social position of the office and store girl prevents her from associating with the factory girl after hours, thus lessening her chances of meeting men by fortuitously keeping her out of the public dance-hall, and while she meets many men during the day's work, she finds few of them "serious."

"In business we meet more men, I think, than either home or factory girls do," said a Western stenographer, "but few of us meet them in the right way for them to consider us as possible wives."

A New York clerk put it more forcibly. "If less elegantly," "These here mashers ain't the marrying kind."

The last girl he sought to allure was

beings; the concrete symbol of brain and brawn expended in work.

We go long journeys to see vast monuments of the past that are significant as evidences of astounding human effort. Yet every one of us carries and uses more or less carefully imposing monuments of human effort.

If the boy, the girl—before spending a dollar, thought, "This represents the sweat, perhaps the blood, of some or many of my fellow beings laboring hours on hours; I must see that it is used worthily, that I do not give it up for less than its full value"—if some such thought as this were in his or her mind, perhaps well, perhaps many things, including lower prices for food and clothing.

CHANCE MADE AN INDIAN GIRL SUCCEED AS AN ARTIST.

Indian women, like their white sisters, are winning fame in art. Angel De Cora, now Mrs. William Dietz, an educated Winnebago, has had a career of which many women might be proud.

Her childhood gave little forecast of her later career. She hated to go to school, and used to run away. When the trunk officer appeared in the neighborhood she would rush into a nettle thicket and get her skin well poisoned; this enabled her to pass her days as a victim of some dread disease, though obscure disease and hence unfit to mix with sound children in a classroom. Thus it came that when, having reached the age of nine without even a knowledge of the English language, she was carried off to Hampton institute she had to begin her education at the bottom.

Her great love in those days was for music and her constant with her white teachers turned her thoughts toward continuing her studies at Smith college. Indian-like, the idea of needing money never entered her mind, so, when from some source transportation to Northampton, Massachusetts, was procured for her, she landed in that town literally without a penny in her pocket. Fortunately she fell in with a kind family who gave her employment and enabled her to work her way through a local preparatory school, and later through the college. Her music had to be abandoned on account of the cost of the lessons, and she took up drawing instead.

Through what appeared at the time a mishap, her life work was settled, for she found form and color even more fascinating than harmony. After concluding the art course at Smith she obtained means for studying under several accomplished masters elsewhere, among them one no less distinguished than Howard Pyle. I remember that when she first entered his studio Mr. Pyle had some doubt of her native talent, but he was soon convinced that she was a genius. He was so much impressed by her work that he gave her a letter of introduction to the artist John G. Brown, a most attractive man in Chicago, who, after a long and successful career in the art world, had just returned to his native land.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Literary club yesterday afternoon, Rev. W. T. Brown gave a talk on Henrik Ibsen, as the Prophet of Individualism. Mrs. F. A. Wickett gave piano selections, and Mr. J. T. Hand a vocal solo, accompanied by Miss Irene Kelly.

The Cleofan will meet next Wednesday and Mrs. Harold Daynes has charge of the program.

The Bay View club meets on Monday, Nov. 14, with Mrs. Ira D. Wines on hostess, the program to include answers to roll call from the Koran, Lesson in Magazine Review, Mrs. A. H. Finkler, Beginning of Diplomatic Relations with China, and Secret Societies in China, Mrs. C. H. Masters; reading "The Chinese Version of Maud Muller," written by Bert Smiley and read by Mrs. Grant Swan.

The University women will hold a meeting on Saturday, Nov. 13. The hostesses are Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Montrose, Mrs. Coray and Mrs. Benlon.

The history section of the Ladies' Literary club met on Thursday morning at the clubhouse at 10:15, when Mrs. W. R. Hutchinson read a paper on Constantinople and its buildings.

The Cleofan met on Wednesday with Mrs. Herman Harms at her home 511 First avenue, the meeting being devoted to a general discussion of current events.

The Salt Lake Woman's club met on Tuesday with Mrs. John L. Bowman, at 264 east Third South street, when the study of Spanish history was continued, Mrs. Bowman giving "The Invasion of the Moors and Their Antecedents," and Mrs. C. S. Kluney discussing current events.

The poets' section of the Ladies' Literary club met on Monday afternoon with Mrs. Thomas Marloneaux at the Stewart apartments, when the study of "Faust" was continued.

The ladies' auxiliary to the U. C. T. met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. M. Struck, 11 Kensington apartments. The business meeting being followed by a kenning.

In Woman's World.

CHANCES OF MARRIAGE.

In choosing an occupation a young woman should carefully consider carefully its effect on her chance of marriage, says Robert Haven Schuller, in "Success Magazine."

Working girls agree that business presents better opportunities than industry does and that the office and the store are the best of all. In other words, business offers in the most proportionate proportions, the two chief factors that increase a girl's chances of matrimony, namely, a relatively high social position and a quantity of eligible and accessible men.

Both of these advantages, however are more apparent than real, as the social position of the office and store girl prevents her from associating with the factory girl after hours, thus lessening her chances of meeting men by fortuitously keeping her out of the public dance-hall, and while she meets many men during the day's work, she finds few of them "serious."

"In business we meet more men, I think, than either home or factory girls do," said a Western stenographer, "but few of us meet them in the right way for them to consider us as possible wives."

A New York clerk put it more forcibly. "If less elegantly," "These here mashers ain't the marrying kind."

The last girl he sought to allure was

beings; the concrete symbol of brain and brawn expended in work.

We go long journeys to see vast monuments of the past that are significant as evidences of astounding human effort. Yet every one of us carries and uses more or less carefully imposing monuments of human effort.

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever.

DR. T. FOLLX GOURAUD'S Oriental Cream or Magical Beautifier.

Removes Tan, Pimples, Freckles, Moth Patches, Rash, and Skin Diseases, and every blemish on beauty, and is so harmless that it is used by the most delicate of women. It is the best of all skin preparations. For sale by all druggists and fancy goods dealers in the United States, Canada and Europe. FELD, T. HOPKINS, Prop., 37 Great Jones Street, New York.

beings; the concrete symbol of brain and brawn expended in work.

We go long journeys to see vast monuments of the past that are significant as evidences of astounding human effort. Yet every one of us carries and uses more or less carefully imposing monuments of human effort.

If the boy, the girl—before spending a dollar, thought, "This represents the sweat, perhaps the blood, of some or many of my fellow beings laboring hours on hours; I must see that it is used worthily, that I do not give it up for less than its full value"—if some such thought as this were in his or her mind, perhaps well, perhaps many things, including lower prices for food and clothing.

CHANCE MADE AN INDIAN GIRL SUCCEED AS AN ARTIST.

Indian women, like their white sisters, are winning fame in art. Angel De Cora, now Mrs. William Dietz, an educated Winnebago, has had a career of which many women might be proud.

Her childhood gave little forecast of her later career. She hated to go to school, and used to run away. When the trunk officer appeared in the neighborhood she would rush into a nettle thicket and get her skin well poisoned; this enabled her to pass her days as a victim of some dread disease, though obscure disease and hence unfit to mix with sound children in a classroom. Thus it came that when, having reached the age of nine without even a knowledge of the English language, she was carried off to Hampton institute she had to begin her education at the bottom.

Her great love in those days was for music and her constant with her white teachers turned her thoughts toward continuing her studies at Smith college. Indian-like, the idea of needing money never entered her mind, so, when from some source transportation to Northampton, Massachusetts, was procured for her, she landed in that town literally without a penny in her pocket. Fortunately she fell in with a kind family who gave her employment and enabled her to work her way through a local preparatory school, and later through the college. Her music had to be abandoned on account of the cost of the lessons, and she took up drawing instead.

Through what appeared at the time a mishap, her life work was settled, for she found form and color even more fascinating than harmony. After concluding the art course at Smith she obtained means for studying under several accomplished masters elsewhere, among them one no less distinguished than Howard Pyle. I remember that when she first entered his studio Mr. Pyle had some doubt of her native talent, but he was soon convinced that she was a genius. He was so much impressed by her work that he gave her a letter of introduction to the artist John G. Brown, a most attractive man in Chicago, who, after a long and successful career in the art world, had just returned to his native land.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Literary club yesterday afternoon, Rev. W. T. Brown gave a talk on Henrik Ibsen, as the Prophet of Individualism. Mrs. F. A. Wickett gave piano selections, and Mr. J. T. Hand a vocal solo, accompanied by Miss Irene Kelly.

The Cleofan will meet next Wednesday and Mrs. Harold Daynes has charge of the program.

The Bay View club meets on Monday, Nov. 14, with Mrs. Ira D. Wines on hostess, the program to include answers to roll call from the Koran, Lesson in Magazine Review, Mrs. A. H. Finkler, Beginning of Diplomatic Relations with China, and Secret Societies in China, Mrs. C. H. Masters; reading "The Chinese Version of Maud Muller," written by Bert Smiley and read by Mrs. Grant Swan.

The University women will hold a meeting on Saturday, Nov. 13. The hostesses are Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Montrose, Mrs. Coray and Mrs. Benlon.

The history section of the Ladies' Literary club met on Thursday morning at the clubhouse at 10:15, when Mrs. W. R. Hutchinson read a paper on Constantinople and its buildings.

The Cleofan met on Wednesday with Mrs. Herman Harms at her home 511 First avenue, the meeting being devoted to a general discussion of current events.

The Salt Lake Woman's club met on Tuesday with Mrs. John L. Bowman, at 264 east Third South street, when the study of Spanish history was continued, Mrs. Bowman giving "The Invasion of the Moors and Their Antecedents," and Mrs. C. S. Kluney discussing current events.

The poets' section of the Ladies' Literary club met on Monday afternoon with Mrs. Thomas Marloneaux at the Stewart apartments, when the study of "Faust" was continued.

The ladies' auxiliary to the U. C. T. met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. M. Struck, 11 Kensington apartments. The business meeting being followed by a kenning.

In Woman's World.

CHANCES OF MARRIAGE.

In choosing an occupation a young woman should carefully consider carefully its effect on her chance of marriage, says Robert Haven Schuller, in "Success Magazine."

Working girls agree that business presents better opportunities than industry does and that the office and the store are the best of all. In other words, business offers in the most proportionate proportions, the two chief factors that increase a girl's chances of matrimony, namely, a relatively high social position and a quantity of eligible and accessible men.

Both of these advantages, however are more apparent than real, as the social position of the office and store girl prevents her from associating with the factory girl after hours, thus lessening her chances of meeting men by fortuitously keeping her out of the public dance-hall, and while she meets many men during the day's work, she finds few of them "serious."

"In business we meet more men, I think, than either home or factory girls do," said a Western stenographer, "but few of us meet them in the right way for them to consider us as possible wives."

A New York clerk put it more forcibly. "If less elegantly," "These here mashers ain't the marrying kind."

The last girl he sought to allure was

beings; the concrete symbol of brain and brawn expended in work.

We go long journeys to see vast monuments of the past that are significant as evidences of astounding human effort. Yet every one of us carries and uses more or less carefully imposing monuments of human effort.

If the boy, the girl—before spending a dollar, thought, "This represents the sweat, perhaps the blood, of some or many of my fellow beings laboring hours on hours; I must see that it is used worthily, that I do not give it up for less than its full value"—if some such thought as this were in his or her mind, perhaps well, perhaps many things, including lower prices for food and clothing.

CHANCE MADE AN INDIAN GIRL SUCCEED AS AN ARTIST.

Indian women, like their white sisters, are winning fame in art. Angel De Cora, now Mrs. William Dietz, an educated Winnebago, has had a career of which many women might be proud.

Her childhood gave little forecast of her later career. She hated to go to school, and used to run away. When the trunk officer appeared in the neighborhood she would rush into a nettle thicket and get her skin well

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever.

DR. T. FOLLX GOURAUD'S Oriental Cream or Magical Beautifier.

Removes Tan, Pimples, Freckles, Moth Patches, Rash, and Skin Diseases, and every blemish on beauty, and is so harmless that it is used by the most delicate of women. It is the best of all skin preparations. For sale by all druggists and fancy goods dealers in the United States, Canada and Europe. FELD, T. HOPKINS, Prop., 37 Great Jones Street, New York.

beings; the concrete symbol of brain and brawn expended in work.

We go long journeys to see vast monuments of the past that are significant as evidences of astounding human effort. Yet every one of us carries and uses more or less carefully imposing monuments of human effort.

If the boy, the girl—before spending a dollar, thought, "This represents the sweat, perhaps the blood, of some or many of my fellow beings laboring hours on hours; I must see that it is used worthily, that I do not give it up for less than its full value"—if some such thought as this were in his or her mind, perhaps well, perhaps many things, including lower prices for food and clothing.

CHANCE MADE AN INDIAN GIRL SUCCEED AS AN ARTIST.

Indian women, like their white sisters, are winning fame in art. Angel De Cora, now Mrs. William Dietz, an educated Winnebago, has had a career of which many women might be proud.

Her childhood gave little forecast of her later career. She hated to go to school, and used to run away. When the trunk officer appeared in the neighborhood she would rush into a nettle thicket and get her skin well poisoned; this enabled her to pass her days as a victim of some dread disease, though obscure disease and hence unfit to mix with sound children in a classroom. Thus it came that when, having reached the age of nine without even a knowledge of the English language, she was carried off to Hampton institute she had to begin her education at the bottom.

Her great love in those days was for music and her constant with her white teachers turned her thoughts toward continuing her studies at Smith college. Indian-like, the idea of needing money never entered her mind, so, when from some source transportation to Northampton, Massachusetts, was procured for her, she landed in that town literally without a penny in her pocket. Fortunately she fell in with a kind family who gave her employment and enabled her to work her way through a local preparatory school, and later through the college. Her music had to be abandoned on account of the cost of the lessons, and she took up drawing instead.

Through what appeared at the time a mishap, her life work was settled, for she found form and color even more fascinating than harmony. After concluding the art course at Smith she obtained means for studying under several accomplished masters elsewhere, among them one no less distinguished than Howard Pyle. I remember that when she first entered his studio Mr. Pyle had some doubt of her native talent, but he was soon convinced that she was a genius. He was so much impressed by her work that he gave her a letter of introduction to the artist John G. Brown, a most attractive man in Chicago, who, after a long and successful career in the art world, had just returned to his native land.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Literary club yesterday afternoon, Rev. W. T. Brown gave a talk on Henrik Ibsen, as the Prophet of Individualism. Mrs. F. A. Wickett gave piano selections, and Mr. J. T. Hand a vocal solo, accompanied by Miss Irene Kelly.

The Cleofan will meet next Wednesday and Mrs. Harold Daynes has charge of the program.

The Bay View club meets on Monday, Nov. 14, with Mrs. Ira D. Wines on hostess, the program to include answers to roll call from the Koran, Lesson in Magazine Review, Mrs. A. H. Finkler, Beginning of Diplomatic Relations with China, and Secret Societies in China, Mrs. C. H. Masters; reading "The Chinese Version of Maud Muller," written by Bert Smiley and read by Mrs. Grant Swan.

The University women will hold a meeting on Saturday, Nov. 13. The hostesses are Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Montrose, Mrs. Coray and Mrs. Benlon.

The history section of the Ladies' Literary club met on Thursday morning at the clubhouse at 10:15, when Mrs. W. R. Hutchinson read a paper on Constantinople and its buildings.

The Cleofan met on Wednesday with Mrs. Herman Harms at her home 511 First avenue, the meeting being devoted to a general discussion of current events.

The Salt Lake Woman's club met on Tuesday with Mrs. John L. Bowman, at 264 east Third South street, when the study of Spanish history was continued, Mrs. Bowman giving "The Invasion of the Moors and Their Antecedents," and Mrs. C. S. Kluney discussing current events.

The poets' section of the Ladies' Literary club met on Monday afternoon with Mrs. Thomas Marloneaux at the Stewart apartments, when the study of "Faust" was continued.

The ladies' auxiliary to the U. C. T. met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. M. Struck, 11 Kensington apartments. The business meeting being followed by a kenning.

In Woman's World.

CHANCES OF MARRIAGE.

In choosing an occupation a young woman should carefully consider carefully its effect on her chance of marriage, says Robert Haven Schuller, in "Success Magazine."

Working girls agree that business presents better opportunities than industry does and that the office and the store are the best of all. In other words, business offers in the most proportionate proportions, the two chief factors that increase a girl's chances of matrimony, namely, a relatively high social position and a quantity of eligible and accessible men.

Both of these advantages, however are more apparent than real, as the social position of the office and store girl prevents her from associating with the factory girl after hours, thus lessening her chances of meeting men by fortuitously keeping her out of the public dance-hall, and while she meets many men during the day's work, she finds few of them "serious."

"In business we meet more men, I think, than either home or factory girls do," said a Western stenographer, "but few of us meet them in the right way for them to consider us as possible wives."

A New York clerk put it more forcibly. "If less elegantly," "These here mashers ain't the marrying kind."

The last girl he sought to allure was

beings; the concrete symbol of brain and brawn expended in work.

We go long journeys to see vast monuments of the past that are significant as evidences of astounding human effort. Yet every one of us carries and uses more or less carefully imposing monuments of human effort.

If the boy, the girl—before spending a dollar, thought, "This represents the sweat, perhaps the blood, of some or many of my fellow beings laboring hours on hours; I must see that it is used worthily, that I do not give it up for less than its full value"—if some such thought as this were in his or her mind, perhaps well, perhaps many things, including lower prices for food and clothing.

CHANCE MADE AN INDIAN GIRL SUCCEED AS AN ARTIST.

Indian women, like their white sisters, are winning fame in art. Angel De Cora, now Mrs. William Dietz, an educated Winnebago, has had a career of which many women might be proud.

Her childhood gave little forecast of her later career. She hated to go to school, and used to run away. When the trunk officer appeared in the neighborhood she would rush into a nettle thicket and get her skin well ability, for it is one of her peculiarities that she makes no effort to put her best foot forward at the outset of an acquaintance. A year later he was asked whether, in his opinion, she had talent. He answered promptly, "No." But the shade of disappointment had scarcely left the inquirer's face when he added, "She has what is better—genius."

PRICES THAT SHOCK WOMEN.

It is the Shopper Who Discovers That The Cost of Living Has Really Gone Up.

So much has been said about the rise in the cost of living that a few facts about summer prices of women's clothing may be used to illustrate just how high prices have soared. A woman's ready-made suit has cost $3 and upward more this spring than last, for the same quality. She can still buy the suit alluringly marked "39.49 cut from $15," but it has so deteriorated in quality that it has ceased to be a "bargain" at any price. Actually the suit that is marked $25 today is of the quality that sold four years ago for $15. The woman who bought a pattern and made her own spring suit had to pay $1 a yard for common blue serge that she bought last year at 75 cents, or for broadcloth $1.50 a yard for what was formerly $1.25.

Gloves that were $1 are now $1.25. Stockings that were a while ago 25 cents are now 35. Shoes have just been marked up. The national best and shoe manufacturers say it's not their fault. It is because the public that found meat too expensive reduced their consumption of that article of food. Therefore there are fewer hides on the market, which has increased the price of leather in the last three years from 17 to 32 cents a pound. Therefore shoes that were formerly $3 a pair are now $3.50. Women's sandal rubbers that were 25 cents a pair a few years ago are now 75 cents, and men's rubbers are $1.25. The manufacturers say one reason for it is the automobile, the tires of a single machine using a supply of rubber that would have made more than 100 pairs of footwear.

The kitchen broom that once was 25 cents is now 40 cents, and a purchaser who recently objected to the price was cheerfully advised by the dealer: "Better buy now. They're likely to go to $1 before the end of the year." Even a kitchen apron costs more than it ever did before with gingham, which many a housewife has purchased for 6 cents a yard, now retailing at 10 cents. Staple cotton cloth once 7 cents is now 12½ cents a yard; and standard sheetings has moved up from 9 cents to 15 cents a yard. The cheapest woolen blankets have gone from $5 to $7 a pair under the operation of a protecting